'DIVORCED PERSONS, SINGLE-PARENT FAMILIES,'
A SOCIAL WORK LABORATORY, IS AUG. 5-9 AT UNIVERSITY

MISSOULA--

The University of Montana Department of Social Work is offering a social work laboratory entitled "Divorced Persons and Single-Parent Families" Monday through Friday, Aug. 5-9, on the UM campus in Missoula.

The five-day program will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day in room 103 of the UM Liberal Arts Building.

Robert L. Deaton, assistant professor of social work, and Ms. Carolyn A. Jennings, a counselor for the UM Center for Student Development, will consider the diverse situations and needs of divorced persons against a background of the single-parent family. Jennings is experienced in individual and group counseling with married and divorced persons and their families. Deaton also is active in counseling.

The five-day laboratory, listed as Social Work 483, is offered for three graduate or undergraduate credits.
